Regarding: Restructuring the AS QRC Weekly Series Coordinator position

February 29, 2012

The Weekly Series is designed to be a consistent safe space for queer people on campus with weekly educational and social meetings. When it was created, only the Queer Resource Center (then named the Lesbian Gay Bisexual Transgender Alliance) and the club Queer People of Color (then named Brown Pride) existed as resources for queer students. The Weekly Series, then, filled an important service gap.

Today, there are four new clubs that serve queer students: Queers and Allies for Activism, TransPort, Queer Women Educating and Supporting Together, and Equal Rights Washington-Vikings. These clubs provide a consistent safe space through weekly educational, social, and support meetings. Each club reports attendance of 10-30 people per week, as Weekly Series attendance has decreased to 5-10 people per week.

Low attendance affects event quality. Discussions are harder to maintain, bringing expensive presenters becomes less economical, and socializing is strained. One of the most common complaints on audience evaluation forms is low attendance, and suggestions to improve events often revolve around bringing more people.

The Weekly Series Coordinator has been listening to the suggestions of queer people on campus to improve the events. Feedback was gathered through last year's Mid-Year Assessment, and informal feedback has been gathered through conversations with people in the office and at Weekly Series events. Suggestions have included specific topic ideas, movies, speakers, moving the events to an earlier time, and co-sponsoring with clubs. Each of these suggestions have been taken into consideration and implemented. None have improved attendance generally. Larger events such as movie showings and events with speakers have had lower attendance than expected and attendance too low to justify the cost of the event. The new and earlier time (4-6pm rather than 7-9pm) further reduced attendance. Events co-sponsored with clubs have also seen lower than average attendance, with little to no club members attending.

It is the opinion of the Weekly Series Coordinator who has held this position since Fall 2010, after much consideration, that Weekly Series is now a duplicate service that no longer serves the student body. However, the Weekly Series Coordinator position should be restructured not removed.

The Queer Resource Center is one of the most visible, highly utilized offices in the AS. Three coordinators are necessary to handle the demand for safe space, peer counseling and referral services, the resource library, meetings with staff and faculty, classroom presentations, campus education, and programming. The Weekly Series Coordinator position also serves the role of providing educational programming, allowing the Coordinator and Assistant Coordinator to focus on large social events with high attendance such as: The Ice Cream Social, Rocky Horror Picture Show, Pride Prom and Homocoming, the Drag Show, and the Queer Experience.

The new position should then be focused on providing educational experiences for students, both in the form of programming and classroom presentations. The QRC receives numerous requests to give classroom presentations and to work with staff and faculty. This responsibility is not currently delegated to a particular position. The new position should be responsible for these presentations and meetings, in addition to 3-4 educational programs per quarter and could co-facilitate the Guess the Straight Person Panel program with the Assistant Coordinator. The reduced programming requirement will allow this position more flexibility and time to invest in classroom presentations and general campus education projects. It would also make the summer hours currently designated for this position unnecessary as they were designed to help prepare for a series of events starting the second week of the quarter. Removing these summer hours would save the AS approximately $150 for 15 hours of work.

The Weekly Series as currently structured is an unnecessary and duplicate service. The proposed changes will allow the Queer Resource Center to better serve student and the broader campus community.
